

CONTENTS

Zhuang Fuling	1	Ai Siqu's Major Contribution to the Localization of Marxism in China
Ma Junfeng	6	Chinese Experience and Marxism with Chinese Characteristics
Gao Baoli	13	Development, From "Hard Reason" "First Task" to "Scientific Development"
Luo Pinghan	19	An Analysis of Mao Zedong's Attitude toward High Food Production "Satellite" in 1958
Tang Zhengmang	26	Mao Zedong and the Evolution of People's Community Ownership in Rural Places and the Basic Accounting Unit
Kong Mingan	36	Is Jean Baudrillard a Postmodernist?—A Debate about the Relationship between Modern Technology and Postmodernity
Zhou Fan	42	Gramsci and the Formation of Post-Marxism
Huo Guihuan	50	From Objective Determination to the Freedom of Will—On the Revolution of Methodology in the Philosophy of Action
Deng Xiaomang	58	Kant's Philosophy and Enterprise Culture
Yu Le	68	Kant's Idea about the Methodology of Pure Practical Reason
Yi Xiaobo	74	Kant's Conception of Fact in Practical Reason and its Demonstration of Freedom
Shao Hua	80	On Heidegger's Interpretation of Kantian Practical Philosophy
Li Xuetao	86	On Chinese Thoughts' Contribution to Jaspers' Idea of Axial Age
Zhu Cheng	97	Self-composure amid Rules—On Confucian View of Freedom from Do Whatever Who Wishes to Do Without Going beyond the Rule
Lin Dan	102	The Inner Contradiction in Zhu Xi's Thoughts—An Analysis of the Possibility of a Metamorphosis from Zhu Zi's Philosophy to Yangming's Philosophy
Cai Fanglu	111	Wang Tingxiang's Idea of "Tao Resides in The Six Confucian Classics "
Lu Xinli	117	Reviews of the Viewpoints of "Self-speaking" and "Speaking of Self" —A Discussion with Mr. Zhang Liwen
Gan Yuanfan	125	Shestov's Perspective on the Definition of Philosophy
Li Shangde		